

Natalie Crawford

Jaime loves her dog Raleigh and takes him everywhere.

Since she lives in Chicago, most places that she goes to are dog friendly. Most places welcome dogs whether it is a restaurant or a store such as TJ Maxx or Nordstrom Rack. Dogs are welcomed and loved in the city of Chicago.

However, when she went to visit her brother who lives in North Carolina for halloween, she stopped in a Firehouse Subs on the drive down.

Since she is used to Chicago, she put Raleigh on a leash and brought him into the Firehouse Subs location with her. Upon entering the store, she was looked at very strangely due to bringing her dog into a restaurant in the middle of suburban Virginia. She was asked to leave and they could not serve her with her dog.

After ranting to her friends from Chicago about it, her friend Stacey told her about an app that allows her to check what places are pet friendly. Jaime instantly downloads the app and begins to search for places around her that she can bring Raleigh into while she gets some much needed food.

After finding a local restaurant that accepts pets inside, she went a grabbed some food before continuing down to her brothers house.

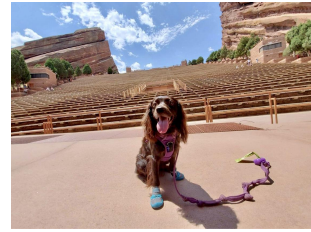

Thanks to the new app that allows users to find pet friendly locations, Jaime was able to make it to her brothers house in time for their annual neighborhood halloween party.

Abbey Elliott

This is Samantha and her dog, Charlie! She really wanted to have a photoshoot with him in honor of his 8th birthday. She also has another dog named Stacy who is 2 years old.

Samantha loves to go on adventures with her pets! This is a picture from her and Stacy going on a hike in the Red Rocks Amphitheatre and Park. Samantha tries to bring her dogs with her and her kids whenever she goes on fun adventures, like this one!

One day, Samantha tried taking her dogs with her to the Bistro Vendome in Larimer Square to celebrate one of her son's birthdays. However, when they arrived, they were forced to take their dogs home because they weren't allowed to be in the restaurant.

After this horrible incident, Samantha VOWED to not have to leave her pets behind her. Her birthday boy, Conner, was so devastated that he couldn't celebrate with Charlie and Stacy.

Samantha vowed to find a solution to her problem. That was when she found our app!

Because of our app, Samantha is able to take her dogs with her and easily is able to see where they can go!

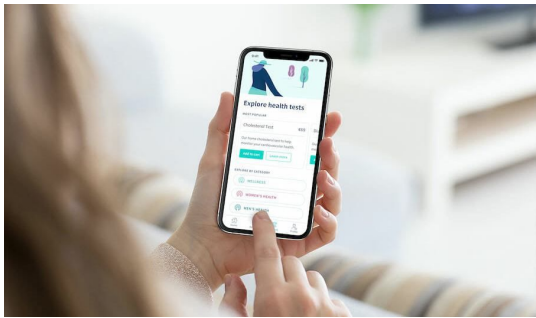

Kuba Jerzmanowski

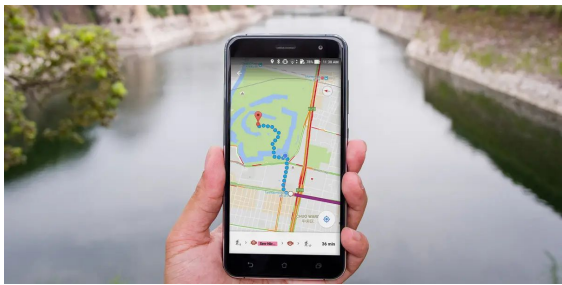

Bobby wants to go places with his dog but they always kick him out. Now he is sad.

Bobby is tired of getting kicked out of stores. He just wants to go places with his dog.

Bobby finds an app that shows him dog friendly places in town.

Bobby finds on the app the nearest dog friendly store and goes there.

Bobby makes it to the store shops happily and does not get kicked out.

Bobby is now a very happy user and keeps finding new places.

Trevor Allison

Jared wakes up Saturday morning at 6:30. He takes a deep breath and fights back tears.

He drives with his cats to a coffee shop to wake himself up.

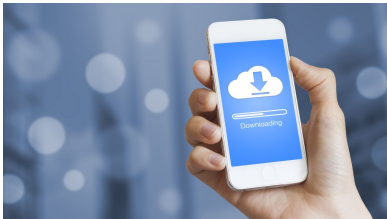

These two are standing guard at the door to the coffee shop. They tell Jared that he is not allowed in the shop with his cats. Jared asks why and they get mad and kick him out.

shutterstock.com · 551348023

Distraught, Jared wonders if there is anywhere he can take his cats and enjoy his coffee also. "I wish there was an app for this!" he exclaims.

It's Jared's lucky day. There IS an app for that. He downloads the Find Pet Friendly locations app by the Dropouts.

Jared uses the app to find a cat friendly coffee shop, and enjoys his coffee there

Betty is a simple lady, living a simple life in the simple town of Madison, Wisconsin. She goes to church every Sunday, and typically goes out to brunch with the ladies afterwards.

Mrs. Windowsill and her friends stop by their homes to bring their pets. Betty's dog, Chachi, is very excited to go.

Upon showing up to her favorite Greek kitchen, Betty is distraught to find a 'no dogs allowed' sign. Chachi is distraught as well - maybe even distraught.

After berating some minimum wage employees, Mrs. Windowsill finds solace in posting angrily on Facebook about the restaurant's injustices against her.

One of Betty's Facebook friends responds in the comments with a solution to her plight: There is an app that marks pet-friendly restaurants in a person's city, preventing Betty from making any more wasted trips.

Betty and Chachi promptly download the app and find a Greek restaurant downtown that allows dogs. Betty dresses in her Sunday Best and hits the town with the gals.